

THE ONE WHO FREEZES

Sam, 24

he / him · variant shy

Knows exactly what he should have said.
Knows it an hour too late.

I plan the whole thing in my head.
Then they say something I did not expect and I am just gone.

02Who he is

THE ARCHETYPE

AGE 24	LOCATION Manchester, UK — city centre
HOUSEHOLD Flatshare, two housemates	EDUCATION BSc, first job out of university
OCCUPATION Junior developer	ALREADY TRIED Books, videos, "just be confident"
TRIGGER The Monday standup he has to speak in	ON HIS PHONE In bed, 23:00 to 01:00

He thinks conversation is a personality he was not issued. Everything he has read confirms it — the advice is all be more confident, which is the outcome, not the method.

The reframe that lands: it is not a trait, it is reps. And reps need somewhere nobody is watching.

03What he wants

GOALS

GOAL 01

Get through a work lunch without going quiet

Not to be charming. Just to still be in it at the end.

GOAL 02

Have the words arrive on time, once

The right line while it still matters, not an hour later.

GOAL 03

Stop replaying it at 1am

The conversation costs him twenty minutes. The night costs him hours.

SUCCESS Three months in, he speaks first at a standup and does not think about it afterwards.

04What hurts

IN HIS WORDS, FROM THE PAGE

01

You plan it in your head

Where it always goes well.

02

Real life is faster

They say something you did not expect, and you go blank.

03

Nobody tells you why

The chat dies. You never find out what you did wrong.

05What he thinks before he taps

OBJECTION → ANSWER

HE THINKS	THE PAGE ANSWERS
Talking to an AI is embarrassing.	It is your phone, in your room. Nobody hears it.
Another app I will open twice.	Three minutes a go. Free to start, no card.
Will it judge me?	It scores the conversation, not you. The recording is never stored — it is read, measured and discarded.

06How he uses it

THE REAL MOMENT

WHEN

Sunday night, in bed, before a Monday he is dreading

WHAT HE PICKS

The café scene. The same opener eight times.

WHAT HE WATCHES

The filler count coming down

STEP 01

Pick a place

A café, a gym, a party.

STEP 02

Talk

Hold the button and speak. She answers straight away.

STEP 03

See your score

What worked, what did not, and what to say instead.

07 Pain, barrier, solution

WHY HE HAS NOT FIXED IT ALREADY

PAIN

The silence after he does not speak, and the four hours afterwards spent rewriting it.

BARRIER

He thinks it is a fixed trait. Every fix he has seen is a confident person telling him to be confident — and it is a private shame, so he will not ask a friend or search for it where anyone can see.

SOLUTION

Reps nobody witnesses, and a score that finally names what went wrong. He has never once been told why the conversation died.

08 The message that lands

WHAT HE RESPONDS TO

Recognition, not aspiration. He has to see his own Tuesday night described back to him before he will believe anything the product claims. Aspirational advertising reads to him as written by, and for, somebody else.

01 You will think of the perfect reply at 1am.

02 It is not that you had nothing to say.

03 Practise the conversation before you have it.

SAY IT LIKE THIS

Second person, quiet, present tense. Name one specific moment — the lift, the lunch, the standup — not an identity. No exclamation marks. Let the silence in the edit do the work.

NEVER SAY

Cure your social anxiety. Become charismatic. Any before-and-after face. Any actor who is obviously extroverted. He will read all of it as proof the product is not for him.

9:16 VERTICAL · 10S · NO DIALOGUE

GENERATION PROMPT — PASTE INTO SEEDANCE / VEO

Cinematic close-up, 9:16 vertical. A man in his early twenties lies awake in a dark bedroom, the only light a phone screen face-down beside him throwing a faint glow across the ceiling. He stares upward, eyes open, replaying something. Very slow push-in. Muted blue-grey palette, shallow depth of field, 35mm, soft film grain. Still, quiet, no camera shake. Room tone only, no music, no speech.

DO NOT Never sell him confidence. He has been sold confidence his whole life and it is the reason he does not trust pages like this one.
